To all soldiers, centurions, and commanders of the Roman Empire:

Know that Lucius Valerius Maximus, Military Tribune of the Second Legion Augusta, is armed with the full authority of the Roman Senate.

He is granted power to take custody of, transport, and dispose of the object discovered at Vindolanda — whether weapons, vessels, or whatever else was found in the subterranean ruins.
This object is to be transferred to Rome without delay.

No one shall remove or retain this object from the Tribune without written mandate of the Roman Senate. He who does not obey this order shall be judged an enemy of the Roman People.
